Section 2. §16-082 Cluster Development (New Section)

§16-082 Cluster Development

§16-082.1 Definitions

For purposes of this section:

"Agricultural structures" include, but are not limited to, barns, silos, tool and equipment sheds, farm markets, packing houses and agricultural labor housing.

"Agricultural infrastructure" includes, but is not limited to, irrigation wells and systems, irrigation ponds, fences, drainage ditches and swales, field tile drains, farm roads, and established access to adjoining roads.

"Agricultural restriction" means an "agricultural deed restriction for farmland preservation purposes," as defined in section 3 of P.L.1983, c.32 (C.4:1C-13).

"Cluster development" means a development with a specified minimum contiguous or noncontiguous acreage of 25 acres or more to be developed, as a single entity, according to a subdivision plan, containing one or more contiguous clusters or noncontiguous clusters and one or more residential uses, as shall be specified in the zoning ordinance. A cluster development is composed of clustered parcels and preserved parcels, but not exempted parcels.

"Clustered parcel" means a parcel of land that is the subject of contiguous or non-contiguous parcel clustering, where the owner of the parcel is receiving the development potential of the preservation parcel, and on which increased density is allowed.

"Conservation restriction" means a "conservation restriction," as defined in section 2 of P.L.1979, c.378 (C.13:8B-2).

"Contiguous cluster" means contiguous parcels of land developed, as a single entity, according to a subdivision plan, containing a section or sections of those parcels to be developed for residential purposes at a greater concentration of development than authorized within the section or sections under conventional development, in exchange for the permanent preservation of another section or other sections of the parcels as common or public open space or for historic preservation or agricultural purposes, or a combination thereof, while maintaining the same development potential for the parcels combined.

"Density" means the permitted number of dwelling units per gross area of land that is the subject of an application for development, including noncontiguous land.

"Development potential" means the maximum number of dwelling units that may be constructed, without bulk variances or design exceptions, on a specific parcel of land in accordance with the master plan and land use regulations in effect on the date of the adoption of the ordinance authorizing cluster development, as provided in §16-082.4.

"Development restriction" means an agricultural restriction or a conservation restriction.

"Exempted parcel" means a parcel or a portion of a parcel of vacant or developed land, which shall be exempted or excluded from a cluster development so that the owner may develop, expand or change a future or existing conditional, non-agricultural use or structure, that does not meet the applicable qualifications, standards, conditions, and restrictions for a rural microenterprise, as set forth in N.J.S.A. 4:1C-32.1 and as provided in an approved agricultural restriction. Exempted parcels shall be indicated on a cluster development's lot yield plan and conform to the minimum bulk and area requirements in §16-250.7. An exempted parcel's lot area shall not be used to determine a cluster development's development potential. Applications for cluster development approval shall also include the subdivision of exempted parcels. Exempted parcels shall not be covered by an agricultural or conservation restriction, such as those required for preserved parcels.

"Noncontiguous cluster" means noncontiguous parcels of land developed, as a single entity, according to a subdivision plan, containing a section or sections of those parcels to be developed for residential purposes at a greater density than authorized within the section or sections under conventional development, in exchange for the permanent preservation of another section or sections of the parcels as common or public open space, or for historic preservation or agricultural purposes, or a combination thereof, while maintaining the same development potential for the parcels combined.

"Preserved farmland parcel" means a preserved parcel subject to an agricultural restriction.

"Preserved parcel" means a parcel of land that is or has been the subject of contiguous or non-contiguous parcel clustering, whose development potential has been calculated and utilized with an associated clustered parcel in a clustered development and preserved through a development restriction.

"Rural microenterprise" means a small-scale business or activity that is fully compatible with agricultural use and production on the premises, does not, at any time, detract from, diminish, or interfere with the agricultural use of the premises, and is incidental to the agricultural use of the premises. These non-agricultural uses include: customary rural activities, which rely on the equipment and aptitude historically possessed by the agricultural community, such as snow plowing, bed and breakfast inns, bakeries, woodworking, and craft-based businesses; and agriculture support services, which have a direct and positive impact on agriculture by supplying needed equipment, supplies, and services to the surrounding agricultural community, such as veterinary practices, seed suppliers, and tractor or equipment repair shops. Unless otherwise specified by section 6 of the "Right to Farm Act," P.L.1983, c.31 (C.4:1C-9), a rural microenterprise is not eligible for protection under that act.
